First University Class - Estate Planning

No, you are not too young to learn about estate planning! And, estate planning is not just about the money! This 2-hour class taught by attorney Shawn Hiesterman will be Saturday, January 17th, at 10:00 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall. Shawn will help participants understand the components of estate planning and how they work together, both during life and after death. Young adults ages 18 and over and families with young children are especially encouraged to attend. Childcare will be available. There is a sign-up sheet in the entryway.

First University – Sewing

Do you want to learn to sew simple clothing, pajama pants, a simple top, and a purse? These are a few of the things you will learn in the Personal Sewing 102 Class. Sharon Peterson will be teaching this class. You can join any of the Saturdays in January, the 3rd, 10th, 17th and 24th, from 10:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. in the Conference Room. The only requirement is a want to learn how to sew. NO previous experience is required. The class is open to middle school students and older. If you can, bring a sewing machine and some simple supplies.
